Snotty Pentfold— Fractured Leg

The Hurdlers have put in an official protest on how the players of the week are chosen. Our source tells us that The Hurdlers organization felt that they were be excluded from the selection process, due to their amazing record over the last two years.

Kunai was quoted "Wesss have ssssome of da bessst playerss in the league, yet they never get picked for da Playerssss of da week awardssss" This is a growing concern in the Slaan nation, fans feel that this is due to racial profiling.

So we decided to corner commissioner Awesome to hear what he had to say on this growing issue. "Not everyone has an individual star, the Hurdlers are one of the best teams in the league, it pains me to admit that but it's true" He was able to give some insight as to how the players are picked. "We spend hours going over stats and evaluating player performances week to week, some times it's easy some times we have to pick based off opponent or my personal favorite a die roll"

The question still stands are the Hurdlers being excluded from the Player of the Week award, this reporter believes this might be the case, although we could not find any proof, that the Hurdlers Players have the stats to win this award or not.

White Knight vs Black Knight

With the season about to finish we thought that people would like to know who has the best division. If you ask the fellows from the Black Knight Division they'll all say it's their division that will take the Hammer Bowl home, on the other hand the White Knight men say the same thing, so who's better? If you look at the stats through the first 8 weeks, the White Knight Division is clearly the more dominant division, in 8 weeks the Black Knight Division has accumulated 116 touch downs, and caused 141 casualties. The White Knight Division crushes these numbers with 176 touch downs for, and causing 155 casualties. The stats don't lie.

We asked the New Ulthuan Patriots head coach what he thought about the debate and he had this to say "Our division is better hands down! We're faster and tougher, I can attest to that as we've suffered more deaths then any other team in the league" The coaches from the Black Knight Division were

"Our division is better, hands down,! We're faster and tougher"... Coach of the New Ulthuan Patriots split on their thoughts, "They killed Cuddles, if we were in the White Knight Division he's still be here and we'd still have a chance to win" said coach Havoc when we asked him about the divisions. While wacaplets said, "The Black Knight division softer than the WWF, I am not sure who made decides where the teams go, but we're the best team in the division but the WWF and Charges managed to cheat their way to number 1 and 2"

There is a lot of talk around who's the best, we were unable to get commissioner Awesome to chat about the divisions and who's better, but a source told us that he's planning on having several bowl games. In these games he will match two teams from each conference to face off and the head office feels that it will be a good way to decide who's the best. If you ask us, we put our support behind the Hurdlers, as they pay the most..

GOBBO ON THE GREEN

A funeral was held earlier dis week for da seasoned veteran of 2 and a half seasons, Cuddles. Many of da teams in da league were in attendance (excluding da Chargers of course) to see off dis magnificent player. Even all da fans of da Voodoo held a vigil around da funeral parlor. Teammate Clunk spoke to me during da funeral. "Cuddles fast. Cuddles scary. Then Cuddles get old. Cuddles get bounty. Cuddles fall down go boom. No more Cuddles." What will da Voodoo do now against necromantic rivals, da WWF? How will rookie Luppie stand up against da Hulkster and Koko B. Ware? We will see it all on da pitch!

BLINGTOOF'S GITBASH TOURNAMENT

Do you like goblins? Do you like fouling downed opponents?

Then Blingtoof's Gitbash is the tournament for you! The Gitbash is a goblin-themed Blood Bowl tournament taking place in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada on Saturday, November 2nd. This year, the Gitbash is a one-day, four game tournament that is taking place at Hammercon, a fantastic annual game convention at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in downtown Hamilton. Participation in the tournament is free with paid admission to the convention (a Saturday-only pass will run you $25 if you pre-register today) and all tournament attendees are also invited to the Blingtoof After-Party which will be held in a suite at the convention.

MIDAS' GOLDEN GAME

Hey Blood Bowl Fans, If you picked the Hurdlers and you won your money, if you picked either the WWF or the Voodoo, I thank you for your kind donation.

We have a few weeks left in the season, the playoff picture is shaping up. I am giving you a chance to make some real coin here. So this year we got a lot of money on the Hurdlers repeating for a second straight win. WWF looks good right now, however I don't think they have what it takes to win their division, I do think the Brute Squad will win their division.

This gives us the following Championship game, The Huatl Hurdlers facing off against the Bogenhafen Brute Squad. The Brute Squad are due, and WWF are in our opinion over rated. These two teams met last year in a game that showed the Hurdlers as the dominate force, but A lot has changed in that time. The Hurdlers have lost a veteran Blitzler and the Brute Squad have struggled at key points during this season. Both teams have are high in potential, the Brute Squad coach is a good friend of mine and will be getting my coin support in beating these frogs!

HAMMER BOWL HISTORY

There's a growing buzz around Black Knight Pitches, about the growth of the league. Every league seen some growth but word is out that Hammer Bowl is the most sought after league in fantasy sports. What makes the league so good? Commissioner Awesome feels that it is the coaches, "With out them we have no league" he said out front of the Hammer Bowl main office. When you look at the growth of the league in their first season they had 10 teams. That season folded half way though, but Blood Bowl came back to life 2 years ago with a grand total of 14 teams. The league expanded to 18 teams in season 2. Although they lost a few teams in their third season the league has grown to 22 teams. With this growth Commissioner Awesome has started Blood Bowl Boot Camp, a training camp for new coaches and teams. There's been a lot of hype around the game and the growth continues to be there, We at the Fractured leg look forward to another season.

Rumours are swirling around the league regarding the Black Knight Division's Khorne's Stampede after they suffered setbacks versus the rising Slann Diego Chargers. Live on Cabalvision's Monday Night Blood Bowl, the Chargers took it to the Stamps early, fracturing the skull of minotaur Bovinicus, and then killing rising beastman star Jordun Pogmas. Luckily the Stamp's apothecary rushed onto the field to save Pogmas' life.

When the dust had settled, the Chargers had pasted the Stamps 5-0 in casualties and won the game 3-0. Many fans and reporters that attended the match insisted that Khorne had deserted the chaos squad in favour of the lizards, who took it to the Stamps with cold blooded efficiency. Researchers of the chaos god insist that Khorne requires the sacrifice of blood and skulls for his throne, not caring from which team they are supplied.

Both teams will face tough opponents in week 10 with the Stamps facing the Ancaster Anacondas without three players from their starting roster, while the second place Chargers hope to extend their three game winning streak against Black Knight Division leaders WWF: We Want Funerals.

We Want Funeral's has been in the league for two years, coached by Inquisitor 7, who has a record of 11-4-3 and never made the play offs. They rely heavily on their star Hulk Hogan. Team official's have come up with a catchy fan club called the Hulkamaniae's that currently has no members. In their first season the WWF missed the play offs by three points in a game where they forfeited to the former Hydras. The team bounced back this season and silenced almost all of their critics. They are looking to have an unbeaten streak of 10 games, with one game left in the regular season it appears the team might just do it.

How will anyone beat this team? we had our researchers look into the games played by WWF and here's what they found. The WWF have a single wolf to score, they almost always look to score 2 TD's and walk of the field with a win, so how can anyone beat these guys, it's easy take out their werewolves and this coach would not know what to do. They cage up and play a bashing game, avoid his cage and wait for him to make a mistake. The stats don't lie the WWF are over rated. They lack the skill and knowledge to compete with the leagues top teams.

MVP BATTLE CONTINUES

There is a few intense battles this season, but none stand out like the battle for League MVP. Every week this battle intensifies, between WWF's Hulk Hogan and the Hamilton Tiger-Rats Plague Stala. These two players continue to dominate the pitch helping their teams to clinch playoff spots.

Plague Stala is a rookie from Mordenhiem, he was drafted first over all by the Hamilton Tiger-Rats, of course this was an easy pick as there was only one other team who may have taken him. He started out slow, but as he picked up the Hammer Bowl style he picked up the stats. In the first 7 games he has compiled 7 completions 9 touch downs and voted MVP once.

Hulk Hogan on the other hand is a season veteran that recently achieved Super Star status, there is only two other players alive to have reached that level of play. Hogan has had 15 touch down and 1 casualty. He holds a 8 point lead over the rookie, with 2 games left.

Plague Stala's agent Rattle Stilkons said "Hogan is a one trick pony, Plague's the real deal, this kid spreads the love to all of his teammates" Hogan has a huge following, but that comes with the second largest bounty in the league, Plague holds that record. We've calculated the odds of survival and they come out at 50%. At the end of the day these two players are putting on a great show.
